and so...

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Time.

SENATOR BOHLKE: ...no, it was not meant as an incentive, but at the same time I think it raised the issue with some of those schools saying...

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Time.

SENATOR BOHLKE: ...we consider ourselves sparse.

SENATOR RAIKES: Thank you.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Chris Peterson.

SENATOR C. PETERSON: Mr. President, members of the body, Senator Raikes, do you need some more time?

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Raikes.

SENATOR RAIKES: Senator Bohlke, I...I did just receive some information on the cost grouping cost. It's actually about...the standard cost grouping is 4,300 dollars, roughly; the sparse is 5,070; the very sparse is 5,572. So there is a considerable difference in the cost grouping costs and, thus, the needs calculation depending upon which category you're in. Very sparse is...is roughly $1,200 higher, which would be...can't calculate percentages that quickly, but, oh, what, 20 percent more than the standard cost grouping. And the sparse would be 10 percent more than the standard. I'm just making this point to emphasize that there is a considerable incentive financially...Senator Bohlke, you had a point. If I could yield some of...

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Bohlke.

SENATOR RAIKES: ...Senator Peterson's time.

SENATOR BOHLKE: Yes, there was one other that, within the very sparse, remember, was the extremely remote that...that there was a difference of...
